How you can make your Living-Room Attractive

THE above reproduction is of a living-room finished with Sherwin-Williams Flat-tone. Flat-tone is an oil paint made especially for interior decorating. It produces a flat finish which can be washed with soap and water without injury. The color which you choose for the walls and ceiling of a room is the main factor around which the remaining decoration of the room is planned; it is therefore important that you should choose a color that will harmonize easily with the woodwork, furniture, rugs, etc. The great advantage of Sherwin-Williams Flat-tone is that the line contains such a large number of harmonious colors, that no matter what color scheme you may plan for your room, you can easily find this color in this line.

Come in and talk over your interior decorating with us and let us show you a color card of Sherwin-Williams Flat-tone Colors.

Football

The Fire Brigade and School teams met in the league competition on Friday last. A fine crowd had turned out in the expectation of seeing a good game, but a wind storm sprang up, which not only kept a lot of people away, but completely spoiled the game, blowing the ball out of play frequently and spoiling the efforts of the players, who could scarcely control the ball at all. With a wind like that it was anybody's game, and the Firemen secured three goals in the first half, one of which was scored by A. R. Gibson who, in trying to clear the ball, placed it through his own goal out of reach of the goalkeeper, who looked fierce. The second half no goals were scored, the School holding them down very well. Considering the circumstances, it was a very good game, but it should never have been played at all, while the Firemen are to be congratulated on their win, they were certainly not three goals better than the School, who put up a great fight.

School vs. Callies.

A good crowd turned out on Monday night to see the Callies and School league match. The Callies had a very strong line-up, probably the best they have turned out this season. The School also had a good team. Art Carwell was not playing though, owing to an injury to his leg. The game was of a high character from the kick-off and pleasant to watch. The first half was very fast, each side striving hard to score, and both goalkeepers and backs having a lot to do, but the whistle blew with no goals scored. The second half was also good, but not quite so fast as the first, which had taken a lot out of the players. A. R. Gibson, the school back, handled the ball close to goal, and the inevitable penalty was awarded. Brydie took the kick and gave Hewson no chance with a fast rising ball. This was hard luck for the School, and shortly after one of the Callies put in a ground shot which Hewson handled, but it slipped between his hands and legs, much to his disgust, thus scoring the second goal. The School were not disheartened and continued to peg away without, however, managing to score. Chuk Carwell, while doing good work on the left wing, was not so successful as usual. Markie did a lot of good work, but generally finished up with a wild swing, which with the ball till he lost it. The team all round though played very well, especially the defence. Claire Smith playing his best game so far. The Callies played well to a man. The old favorite, Jock Oliver, being in good form, was also Jock Steadman, who showed some scientific touch. The outside right also got in good work, and the team altogether played well. There was no rough play, just a few trivial fouls, and scarcely any slide play. The Callies were about one goal the best on the play.

Baseball

A meeting will be held in the offices of the Smith Land Co., on Thursday night, June 5th, at 8 p.m., for the purpose of organizing a special team to go to Alia to play for the Brewery Trophy. A challenge has been forwarded to Alia, and a game will likely be arranged to take place shortly. Every person interested in baseball is urgently requested to attend.

Be Sure to Vote For By-Laws On Monday

Four money by-laws will be voted on by the ratepayers on Monday next, June 10th. All of these by-laws are for needed improvements in the city, and are as follows: Improving water works, new intake basin and other improvements, $25,000. City's share of cement walks and paving, $10,000. Graveling and fixing streets, $8,000. Improvements to parks, $1,000. Part of this work is already done, and if the by-laws should be defeated, the payment would have to come out of current revenue. Every ratepayer with the city's interests at heart should make a point to vote for the by-laws on Monday next.

Change of Business

Lowie Bros., of the North End grocery store, have bought out N. C. Murphy, Gaetz Ave., and have opened up with a full line of new groceries, crockery and fancy glassware. This firm has made a success of the North End Store, and they hope to retain all old customers, as well as making new ones.

North Red Deer Notes

The Council of the Village of North Red Deer held its regular meeting last night. Councillors Kent and Webb present.

The resignation of Reeve Mell, wrath was received and accepted with regret, owing to it being impossible for him to give the required attention to the affairs of the village. The Secretary was instructed to take immediate steps for the election of a Councillor to take the seat vacated by Mr. Mell.

A scavenger was appointed, and a sanitary inspector will be appointed who will also levy the dog taxes. It is hoped that the financial affairs of the village will be such in the course of a couple of weeks as to permit of certain improvements being made to the roads. The road at the S. W. corner of the school block will be put in proper shape at once.

Mr. A. W. G. Allen was appointed auditor for the village. Nominations for Councillor will be received by the returning officer at the village office on Tuesday evening, 10th inst., from 8 to 10 o'clock. The Council, as the Board of Health, declined to grant permission to a ratepayer to keep pigs within the limits of the village.

Great Assembly of Presbyterians In Toronto

The greatest assembly of Presbyterians, and one of the greatest religious conventions ever held in Canada, is now in session in Massey Hall, Toronto. The Rev. D. A. S. Grant, General Superintendent of Home Missions of the Presbyterian church in Canada, is the father of the idea, and enlisted the interest of ten men in different parts of Canada who gave $10,000 each to solve the transportation problem. This made possible the giving of a free ticket to every minister, professor and official of the church and their wives, as well as one layman for each congregation. The homes of Toronto have been thrown open to give free entertainment to all delegates while in the city. The meeting promises to be one of great value to the church and to the country. A special car for those going over the C.P.R. route was filed by delegates from the Red Deer district, among those in attendance being the Revs. M. D. Keith, J. G. Meek, F. B. Willson, F. J. Hartley, S. Marshall, P. D. Roxburgh, J. R. Brown and their wives, together with Messrs. W. R. Ellenwood, W. J. Reay, O. Brown, J. D. B. J. Graham, H. G. Moyse, A. H. Ilsey and Mrs. Ilsey. Mr. Wm. Eakin was one of the delegates, but was called back from Swift Current on account of the serious illness of his child, which we are glad to hear is now recovering.

Sylvan Lake Regatta

At the public meeting, last Friday night, the question of the Sylvan Lake regatta came up. It was mentioned by several present that the lake committee were looking to Red Deer for assistance in the matter. While the meeting thought that Red Deer should and would help, they did not wish to butt in on the matter; but a committee was nominated who would offer their services in conjunction with the Lake committee. The following were chosen to act: R. B. Welther, W. E. Payne, S. N. Carscallen, G. W. Smith, W. M. Jarvis, Geo. Lindsay, R. B. Woods, worth, Capt. Cottingham.

Died at Dartmouth, Nova Scotia

We clip the following obituary notice from the Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, Patriot, as it will be of interest to many Red Deer residents who were acquainted with the deceased lady. There passed away, on the 19th inst., an old and highly esteemed resident in the person of Mrs. Gaetz, widow of the late James Gaetz. Deceased, who was a Miss Rizey, was born in Laffale seventy-nine years ago, and her early married life was spent in Musquodoboit, from where she and her husband came to Dartmouth about forty-five years ago.

By her gentle and kindly disposition she made and held many warm friends, who will learn with regret of her death. She was active up to five months ago, when failing health necessitated her closing her house on Myrtle street and removing to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Ross. For the last few weeks she suffered intensely, yet to the end exemplified rare patience and knew those of the family who gathered around her.

The sympathy of many friends is extended to her family of three sons and four daughters: Howard L. and Judson of Dartmouth; Freeman, messenger of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Halifax; Mrs. Hugh Ross and Mrs. Henry Oland of this town; Mrs. George W. Brush of Halifax; and Mrs. A. E. Keast of Inglefield, Alta. Mrs. Gaetz also leaves seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral took place on Tuesday, the 22nd, the services being conducted by Rev. Wm. Phillips of the Methodist church, pastor of the deceased, and Rev. F. E. Bishop, pastor of the Baptist church, in which communion her husband had for many years been a devoted deacon.

The casket contained a number of very beautiful floral offerings. The body was laid to rest beside that of her husband who predeceased her four years and five months ago. "To rest forever after early in life."

In the calm light of everlasting life."

Unfounded Rumors

There is no foundation whatever for the wild rumors that have been running about the city the past few days. The Great West Lumber Co. are not shutting down, and have no intention of doing so, unless the logs in the pond run out before the timber on the way down the river reaches Red Deer. In that event the mill will have to wait until the logs arrive.

With regard to the Cement Builders, the Company had it difficult to find customers, as building operations in the province are very backward, and the company find difficulty in making sales. As they have already about a million brick on hand, it may be possible the works will be compelled to shut down until customers are found for the finished article.

Baptist Convention at Red Deer

Next week the Alberta Baptist convention meets in Red Deer. One hundred delegates are expected to attend. On Tuesday afternoon and evening the Women's Convention meets. On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the convention will be addressed by Hon. A. C. Rutherford of Edmonton and Rev. J. C. Sycamore, M.A., Calgary.

On Thursday evening addresses will be given by Principal D. R. Sharp of McArthur College, and Rev. F. W. Patterson, Edmonton. All are invited to attend these services. Rev. J. R. Stillwell, a missionary from India, also Dr. McKay, of Toronto, and Dr. Whidden, of Brandon College, will be present and deliver addresses during the convention.

The Charity Ball

The young ladies of the Alexandra Club are holding a Charity Ball, in aid of the Memorial Hospital, on Friday evening, at the Parish Hall. No invitations are issued, but tickets will be two dollars for gentlemen and lady, and one dollar for extra lady. There will be supper served about twelve o'clock. Dancing will commence at nine o'clock. Buy a ticket and help along the good work of the Hospital.

Poplar Ridge

Services were conducted by Rev. Beumt last Sunday. Don't forget next Sunday at 8 o'clock. "Mr. and Mrs. Joe Peets, of North Red Deer, were visitors in the neighborhood on Sunday." S. J. Horvick, of Calgary, has gone to Leslieville after spending two weeks in Poplar Ridge. Mr. Ed. Burns, of Pleasanton, Alta., was here on business last week.

Frock Coats

ORDINARY kinds of Frock Coats are as common as lamp posts.

A Hoberlin Frock Coat is designed and cut and tailored by men who are artists, and symmetry is its middle name. It were far better for you never to wear a frock at all than to wear one which fails to give you that symmetry of line—which it is the function of such a garment to give.

Soft flexible textures in deep Oxfords, pure black Cheviots or undressed worsteds.

Barnes' Circus

Al. G. Barnes' Circus visited Red Deer on Wednesday last with their up-to-date show, which was as usual, in keeping with their advertisements. A large number of people from the outlying districts had arrived in the city with their families to take in the procession and show, and lined up the sidewalks as the procession, sharp on time, proceeded through the streets. The procession was in the city with the show itself, which was held on the grounds across the track adjoining the crematory, was well worth the money charged for admittance. The performance in the main tent was of a first class one, the horses, ponies, dogs and wild animals being trained almost to perfection, showing what patience can do. The sea lions were a special feature. They could do almost anything but talk. The way these creatures balanced a football and imitation billiard ball on their nose, throwing them from one to the other, fetched down rounds of applause. It was perhaps the best act of the show. In the same time the lady trainers' handling of the lions, tigers and wild cats called forth a lot of applause. One of the lions appeared to be in an amiable mood, and his efforts to strike the trainer caused a feeling of alarm among some of the ladies present. The dancing horses were fine, the actions of some in particular being very fine. The bucking mules, and the efforts of those who tried to ride them, were another fine feature, also the dogs. Another act worthy of remark was where one of the lady trainers laid down flat on the ground, and a huge elephant, by very slow degrees, stepped a stride of her and lay down upon her without in any way causing her harm, and then slowly raising himself up again he lifted her to her feet. The man and bear wrestling match was watched most intently, the bear having the best of the argument. Needless to say, he was untried.

The side show were well patronized, particularly the one which contained the woman with four legs. It altogether, the show was a very good one and well worth attending.

Sport Notes

The Australian cricketers, whose team includes some of the finest players in the world, arrived at Victoria, B.C., on Wednesday last, and were welcomed at the Empress Hotel by the citizens. Their first match was played at Oak Island against an All Island team. Friday and Saturday they met a picked team of all British Columbia. The team on the last day, Wednesday, on June 3rd and 4th. This will be a good opportunity for those interested in the game in Red Deer to go and see some international play. Warren Barclay and C. McCarty, the pair who made 200 runs for the first wicket against South Australia in 1908, will be playing. Another splendid effort of Barclay's was in 1909, when, in a test match against England, he scored 136 and 100, a record that has not been beaten.

FOOTBALL.

The difference between the Calgary Hillhurst team and the League are likely to be overcome. Hillhurst had withdrawn from the League, and some of the players had signed for other teams; but at a crowded meeting on Wednesday last it was decided to come back into the League, provided the League would make certain concessions, which do not appear to be unreasonable. It would be a great pity for such an institution as the Hillhurst F. C. to fall to pieces, for they are without a doubt as fine a team as any in the Dominion.

Willie Kolchman, the great Finnish runner, won the 10-mile Canadian professional championship at Toronto last week.

THE PITCAIRN ISLANDS

Interesting People Descendants of Noted "Bounty" Mutineers.

H.M.S. Albatross, Commander Brooke, sailed from Esquimaux, B.C., for the South Seas, with clothing, books, etc., for the Pitcairn Islanders, the descendants of the Bounty mutineers, who have few visitors.

The residents of Pitcairn Island are a most interesting people. They are of a light copper color, being descendants of Englishmen who intermarried with natives of the islands, and small cottages of three rooms, are built of timber sawn by hand from the forest trees. The methods for fishing being secured from passing ships and tools from kindly ship carpenters. The men tend their gardens, build boats, fish, etc.

Some grain is grown, but not enough to supply the demands of the islanders and is therefore imported from the mainland. The people are of a very religious turn of mind. They built a church many years ago, in which is an organ sent to the island by the late Queen Victoria.

The population is about one hundred. The chief man in number and families are so intermarried that the majority of weddings are between cousins. The climate is mild, the land is Governor; he is the executive, legislative and judicial branches all in one.

The first settlers were from the ship "Bounty". The vessel left Spithead in 1787, and in the spring of 1789 Fletcher Christian and three other panthers broke into the captain's cabin and bound him and gagged him, and the mutineers and their followers were in an open boat. They eventually reached land, and the mutineers after various vicissitudes reached Pitcairn Island and founded the colony which now occupies the little isle.

A Tour Through Canada

It was barely a year since I left the shores of Canada behind me and the irresistible magnetism of the Dominion, which is causing me to return, and I was again in an open boat. They eventually reached land, and the mutineers after various vicissitudes reached Pitcairn Island and founded the colony which now occupies the little isle.

THE NORTH BOUNDARY

Line Between Alaska and Canada Ends at Arctic's Shore

The last of the long chain of bronze monuments that mark the Alaskan boundary between the United States and Canada in as straight a line as the broad red line that is ruled on the map was planted within a few feet of the Arctic ocean, at the land end of the 141st meridian, and nine miles west of Demarest Point, 40 miles west of Herschel Island.

Contrary to the common idea of the Arctic, the last boundary monument was planted in a meadow that is a mass of bloom in summer. Huge California poppies, lupines, daisies, Johnny daisies, blue bells and most of the common field flowers bloom in bright patches about it. Close by is a level bank which is the back of the almost tideless ocean.

The monuments are set approximately four miles apart, and some of them are in almost inaccessible spots in the rugged, barren Arctic range. When pack horses could not reach the points, monuments of materials and tools had to be carried on men's backs up the towering cliffs.

Discovered Eighteen Comets. Dr. Lewis Swift, the astronomer, who died at Marathon, N.Y., at the age of 82 years, was regarded as the greatest astronomical discoverer of the nineteenth century. He discovered 30 new comets and received the gold medal. Dr. Swift was blind for the last few years of his life. He came into prominence in 1862, when he discovered the great comet which took his name. In Rochester he set up on the roof of his elder mill the first portable transit in the United States, and from this humble laboratory he discovered more comets and nebulae than any other man in the world.

COAST INDIANS ARE SEMI-ASIATIC

Father Fortin, a Jesuit Priest, Believes He Has Proof of Their Coming Ages Ago.

It was a tale of stern hardship and strange adventure in the "eternal twilight" of the "Barren Lands," that was told by the Father Fortin, in Montreal, on his arrival from the West where he spent twenty years in a Jesuit Mission to the Indians of Northern British Columbia and the Yukon. As a result of long contact with the Indians of the North Country, Father Fortin has evolved an original theory that regards the origin of the Coast Indians. It is his firm conviction that these Indians are not an indigenous race of this continent, but that they are semi-Asiatic and semi-Equatorial. The main argument advanced by the missionary in support of his theory is contained in an extensive investigation of the folklore and traditions of the various tribes of the Coast that have managed to retain their identity. The results of his research led Father Fortin to determine approximately the date of the migration of the ancestors of those tribes.

About ten thousand years ago, Father Fortin believes, there was a terrible revolution in northern Asia and Siberia—one of the periodic outbreaks of pent-up savagery such as depopulated Europe and Asia with centuries of Christian era. A harried remnant of a semi-Asiatic Siberian tribes, driven south by the advance of the ice, and pillagers, found its way across the Behring Straits and settled on the Pacific coast of America.

Father Fortin says he found unmistakable evidence of this migration in the form of tradition which bear close resemblance to the traditions of the so-called Mongolian tribes of Southern Siberia. Probably the most remarkable point of Father Fortin's theory is that these migrated tribes brought with them a distinct and advanced civilization which practically disappeared in the North American wilderness amidst a new environment. "I am convinced," said Father Fortin, "that the people of the Coast are the descendants of a people who were once a part of the great Mongolian Empire."

MIXED FARMING NEEDED

British Columbia Paper Sounds Note of Warning to Orchard Men

Fruit producers in British Columbia have a large market in Western Canada. The prairie country is probably the largest of growing kinds of fruit, but other crops are likely to be more profitable. This farm population is increasing rapidly, and the habit of buying green fruit will grow on the people. There is also a provincial market which is being supplied by imported fruit. New traffic routes will be opened. Local growers and packers will soon learn all that can be done to develop the market.

But it is time to consider whether the attention of the people in the fruit growing district is not fixed too much on fruit growing. Soil that is good for orchards is good for crops. Fruit men seem to offer large returns, but if the whole of the land that is suitable for orchards is planted in trees the production will be in few years be enormous, and a large part of the population will be dependent on the market for one class of commodities. If this province is admirably adapted to fruit it is also well suited to dairying, stock raising and all kinds of mixed farming. It is sometimes said that the prairie farmers are giving their attention too much to a single crop. They are that, but every year, when British Columbia with a tempting market for all kinds of farm products has the least need to concentrate on one kind of husbandry—Vancouver News Advertiser.

Curious Scientific Prediction.

Many people are familiar with the story often told of the great naturalist Cuvier, to the effect that, given a single bone he could reconstruct the animal to which it belonged. That a somewhat similar law of organization must govern the various species that are found in the animal world is indicated by a quaint case of scientific prediction, to which attention has again been called.

It appears that Ehrenberg, when engaged in a study of the minute animals called diatoms, found that many species were distinguished by the number of rays they possessed. In the series of specimens that he had, however, he could find none having, respectively, 27, 29, 30, 31, 37, 39, 41, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 49 rays. Still he predicted that the missing species would some day turn up. This prediction has been verified; for ten of them have since been discovered, leaving only three to be accounted for.

KNOCKING THE A.C.R.

The Calgary Albertan is becoming famous as a knocker. It is trying at the present time to knock Red Deer and the Alberta Central Railway running through the city.

It is hardly conceivable that a paper can, day after day, make statements that, sifted to the bottom, have no foundation in fact.

For instance, in an attack on the Dominion government regarding railway subsidies, it said, last Thursday:

"The Government . . . hands over to the Canadian Pacific railway, the richest railway in the world, subsidies for roads which have actually been built without any cash loan at all. For instance, the C.P.R. by organizing the Alberta Central under another name, secures a guarantee of bonds from the provincial government, builds the road to Rocky Mountain House and now gets a bonus from the Dominion government for the work that it has already done. It is simply an out-and-out gift."

The Alberta here states a deliberate untruth.

The Alberta Central railway was organized by John T. Moore, Liberal M.P., at that time, for Red Deer, and he applied to the Liberal government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier for a subsidy for his line, and this was granted, and the first spike was driven by Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways in the Laurier government, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier during their tour of the west. The subsidy was made subject to the completion of the grade, which has just been accomplished, and the Borden Government is only carrying out the work contracted by the Liberals.

Further, no provincial subsidy was ever given this line so far as we can find out, and the Alberta is in error in making the statement.

After putting up this "straw man" and pounding it to its own satisfaction, the Alberta sheds crocodile tears over the awful wickedness of the Borden Government, and tragically wails to high Heaven that "the patience of the people is about at the breaking point."

SENATE REFORM.

A cabinet meeting was held today, when the whole situation was reviewed by the ministry. In view of the language of the premier at the recent Toronto meeting, where he plainly hinted that senate reform would be at once to the front, it is believed that the government will at an early date undertake such a policy, and there seems every reason to believe that they will have the great body of public opinion with them in such reform.

While the senate's action had been forecasted, there were many old parliamentarians who could not believe that the upper house would undertake such a suicidal policy as to fly in the face of Canadian sentiment and kill the measure. They have been disillusioned by the vote this morning.

The rank and file of the Conservative members are highly indignant at the action of the upper house, which in three days has nullified the work of six months in the commons.

The members of the lower house supporting the government are a unit for senate reform, and will be prepared to back the premier and his ministry in any reasonable measure.

There have been rumors of a short session in the fall, but nothing has yet been decided upon by the government. If a fall session were held, the two main questions, in addition to the naval bill, would be redistribution and senate reform. If the redistribution bill had been passed at this session an election immediately would have been very likely, as the majority of the Conservative members would have favored it.

THE SENATE KILLS NAVAL BILL.

The Borden Naval Bill was turned down by the Senate last week, under orders. It is said, of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who threatened to resign the leadership of the Liberal party unless the Senate killed the bill.

The Borden policy was based on a mandate from the people of Canada, was broadminded, non-partisan and statesmanlike, and would, no doubt, have led to a full partnership in the Empire. The action of the Senate has given great pleasure to the enemies of Great Britain throughout the world, and to every traitor in our own country, and the Senate will have to bear the full consequences of their act.

The "good roads" movement has few friends among the Liberals, as they continue to vote down the Highway Bill, which would give Alberta nearly $80,000 to be spent on improving our highways.

The Senate can never be above the Canadian people, and by their action last week in throwing out the naval bill they have condemned the Liberal party to many years of opposition in the House of Commons.

Laurier confessed the other day in the House of Commons that he was a free trader. And for sixteen years he kept in force a fairly high protective tariff. Between Laurier professions and Laurier practices, there is a wide gulf fixed.

Peace Treaty Signed By the Belligerents

Balkan Allies and Turkey Sign Preliminary Treaty of Peace in London

London, May 30.—The preliminary treaty of peace was signed at St. James' Palace by the delegates of all the Balkan allies and of Turkey. Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, presided at the meeting.

Dr. S. Danoff, the Bulgarian peace delegate, in the course of an interview after the signature of the preliminary treaty of peace, said: "I am rejoiced. It means not only Balkan peace, but general peace, and Europe is saved from one of the most terrible problems of the age."

"We owe a deep debt of gratitude to Sir Edward Grey, whose endeavors in treating the matter have brought about peace much sooner than some of us had expected."

The first meeting of the peace conference has been fixed for Monday, June 2nd.

Busy Delburne

New Telephone Office and Fire Hall

Delburne, May 30.—The members of the fire brigade in town have decided to erect a fire hall. At present Mr. Bowdell and men are erecting a large hall on Second Avenue under contract for same.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, of Trochu, arrived in town and have taken up residence on First Street. Mr. Thompson is going into partnership with Mr. Gunn, of the Gunn Hardware Co. here.

A large number of men arrived in Delburne this week in connection with the building of the telephone central offices here and also to complete the complete rural system. On a number of the main streets in town a large number of men are grading. When the work is completed, as it will be in a short time, for they have a good many men engaged on the job, the town will be much improved in appearance.

A most enthusiastic tennis club is forming. A meeting was held on Wednesday evening last and great interest was shown. The courts are in good condition, and we trust there will be many take advantage of and appreciate the effort extended by the committee in charge to make it successful and pleasant.

On Saturday, May 24th, a picnic under the auspices of the Union-Sunday school of the Presbyterian church was given in the Grove at Delburne and a most enjoyable time was spent by the large crowd present.

The weather was bright and sunny and everyone took advantage of it and came out in true holiday mood. In the evening there was a fireworks display.

A dance was given in the hall on Saturday evening last, May 24, and was well attended.

Miss Maynard returned after a week's visit in Calgary with her sister, Mrs. W. Curry.

Mrs. Luckhardt is spending the week in Red Deer with Mrs. Carswells.

Mrs. Ralph G. Gunn is in Edmonton on a two weeks' visit with friends there.

Mrs. Mclellan, Misses Knight and Gaudin were in Red Deer a part of last week.

Miss Howell, of Red Deer, is in Delburne, staying with her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Howell.

Miss Cutham left for Vancouver after spending her holidays with her parents. She died about two years ago. The gift came as a complete surprise.

TWENTY MILLIONS IN THIRTY YEARS

An Estimate of the Future Population of Saskatchewan and Alberta Provinces

A Canadian correspondent of an English newspaper predicts that in twenty years from the present time the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta will have a population of from twenty to twenty-five millions, an annual agricultural wealth of $5,000,000,000 and an output of manufactured products of $3,000,000,000 or more; that there will be over two million people; two cities with populations between four hundred thousand and seven hundred thousand, three cities of from one hundred thousand to three hundred thousand, and nine cities between fifty thousand and one hundred thousand, and in addition several dozens of large towns. He bases his calculations on the growth of the Middle West of the United States within the past fifty years.

Big Immigration.

At present Western Canada has an annual immigration of three hundred thousand, while the average number of people who entered the Middle West States from 1880 up to the present time has been only two hundred thousand per year; yet the Middle West States, covering an area no greater than that of the two Canadian provinces, have now a population of twenty millions. Before 1880 there was no real development in this territory, and even after that there were obstacles to its settlement and advancement which do not exist in the Canadian provinces. For the development of her West Canada has the advantage of three transcontinental railways, facilities for obtaining a very abundant capital for productive purposes on a scale which compares most favorably with the conditions which obtained thirty years ago when the United States West was being developed. Besides this the markets of the world are open for the profitable disposal of everything that Canada can possibly raise, a factor which augurs continued prosperity and cumulative growth.

Splendid Opportunities.

Commenting upon this glowing estimate, the Vancouver Sun says: "It is not too much to expect that within seven or eight years it will be double what it is today. All of this, of course, will not be taken by Saskatchewan and Alberta, but the greater part will go to the West, and a simple arithmetic calculation will show that an estimate of twenty millions of people for the territory from Manitoba to the Pacific Coast in thirty years' time is in reality a modest one."

The West affords splendid opportunities for the Canadian manufacturer, if he will only take advantage of them by establishing branch factories at strategic points. At the moment United States manufacturers are showing great enterprise in that direction.

MEAT SUPPLIES.

Farmers Should Go Into The Cattle Industry on a Large Scale.

As an indication that the Canadian Northwest is in the same position as the east in regard to meat supplies, last year's live stock receipts at Winnipeg Stock Yards are significant. Receipts of cattle have fallen off steadily during the last five years, while prices have shown more than a relative advance, due to a growing demand. Receipts of sheep and lambs have, on the other hand, steadily increased, and the prices paid, though below those of 1910 and 1909, the year of huge sales during 1912 than for a number of years. The following table brings out these facts:

	1912	1911	1910
To cattle receipts	101,044	102,726	180,517
Av. pr. pd.	$5.48	$4.64	$4.56
To, val.	$7,500,000	$6,000,000	$9,500,000
To sheep receipts	66,041	43,614	30,775
Av. pr. pd.	$5.40	$4.89	$6.31
To, val.	$357,000	$213,000	$194,000

Total hog receipts 110,781 95,177 91,950

Av. pr. pd. $8.65 $7.71 $9.58

To, val. $1,916,000 $1,200,000

There will be a great deal of money in Canadian live stock for years to come. The farmers should go into the stock raising business, as the market is well protected by the Canadian customs tariff.

WHIST DRIVE.

On Monday evening the Young People's Association of St. Luke's Church held a very successful whist drive in the Parish Hall. The prize winners were as follows:

1 Ladies: Miss Cottingham, Mrs. Hives.

Gentlemen: Mr. T. Ellis, Mr. Young.

After the whist drive, refreshments were served in the basement, and a pleasant evening was brought to a close with a short dance.

Cricket Match

The cricket team is going to play Mr. J. J. Mann's school at the exhibition grounds on Friday, June 6, beginning at 6-15. Come and see a great game. No charge for admission.

Jas. Mann's team is as follows:—Fred Hopkins, Harry Wallace, Guy Edgington, W. H. Plaxton, Keller, On DeLong, E. A. Doran, L. M. Miller, J. C. Gillespie, H. L. Seymour, J. M. Campbell, F. M. Hacking, G. B. McLean, J. Mann.

Net practices are held on Tuesday and Friday evenings every week. Cricketers are asked to turn out and get in good trim.

Presbyterian Concert

The Presbyterian choir's annual concert came off with much success on Tuesday, and gave great pleasure to a good audience. Under Mrs. Leary's enthusiastic training and leadership and her own high gifts of song, the choir did excellent work.

Mrs. Quigg and Rev. Mr. Scott were unable to be present, but one of Mrs. Quigg's pupils, Miss May, of Edmonton, attending the Alberta Ladies' College, made a most favorable impression in the numbers she very kindly gave. Miss May has quite a future before her in this art.

Miss Bowker and Mrs. Sanders were also most welcome contributors to the programme.

The choir of Central Methodist Church, Calgary, fifty strong, stopped off at Red Deer on Wednesday evening on their way to the musical festival and competition at Edmonton. Under Mr. W. V. Oaten's leadership, they gave a programme of high class music before a large audience in the Methodist church, sacred selections being dominant. Mr. Oaten gave several organ numbers, and the highest appreciation was shown by the audience to his solo work and his leadership. The choir was well trained tones and easy manner making her at once a favorite with the audience. Miss Dowler, the soprano soloist, gave earnest and intelligent interpretation to her work in parts. The male soloists, Messrs. Horner and Gainer, sang most capably and with fine voice. The whole concert was of a high order of merit, and the Red Deer people counted themselves very fortunate in hearing it, and were grateful to Mr. Welton for his efforts in connection with his visit here. The ladies were given a run round the city in autos, and refreshments were served to them by the Methodist choir and the concert. They left in their special cars at 4:15 a.m. for Edmonton.

DEATH OF LUTHER McCARTY IN THE PRIZE RING AT CALGARY ON MAY 24th.

Luther McCarty came to a sudden end of his career on May 24th while engaged in a boxing contest with Arthur Polkey at the Manchester Arms, Calgary. The deceased was well known in Calgary, having fought his first match there two years ago; and he had recently defeated Jim Flynn and Al. Palmer, which practically stamped him as the white heavyweight champion of the world. There must have been 7,000 people present when McCarty and Polkey shook hands and commenced the fight, which had only been in progress one minute and forty-six seconds when McCarty was seen to reel and fall, never to rise again. The referee proceeded to count him out, according to the rules, and declared Polkey the winner, and the crowd present hailed him as such, thinking McCarty was simply knocked out, but it was almost immediately found out that he was dead. Polkey was arrested and afterwards released on bail. Arthur Polkey was brought up before the magistrates on Monday and charged with manslaughter, but was again released on bail of $10,000 put up by F. C. Lowes and Tommy Burns. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict of accidental death, the immediate cause being the sublimation of the fourth cervical vertebra, with no evidence to show the injury was occasioned. A most unusual event took place a few minutes previous to the fight, when the Rev. W. E. Ward, who had been invited to the church on the following day, turning to the two boxes, told them not to forget in their prayers that they had a Creator, and to prepare to meet Him, as He was a greater referee than the one chosen by them to judge the match. With those parting words he stepped from the ring and the match began.

According to instructions received from the late Luther McCarty's father, his body has been shipped to Pickaway, Ohio.

FOUR MILLIONS FOR INTERIOR ELEVATORS

GOVERNMENT MAKES PROMISE GOOD

One More Help for Western Farmers

Since coming into power the Conservatives have been their energies towards solving the problems of the West. As a result of the activities of the Government, the grain of the West has never been handled as smoothly as in the past year. There was no grain blockade at the head of the lakes, which for years has been the bane of the western farmer.

Navigation, through the use of ice-breakers, was kept open for a period later than ordinary, while American grain ships were allowed to winter at Port Arthur and Port William. These facts had a strong influence on some of the thirteen million bushels which relieved the pressure on the elevators. Then the railroads, through the efforts of the Government, provided a greatly increased equipment and rolling stock to handle the grain of the West.

Hudson Bay Railway.

As for the Hudson Bay railroad, more has been done in the year and a half of office of the Borden Government than in the fifteen years previous. The contract has been let from Lethbridge to the Bay and is being energetically pushed by the Government. The harbor work on the water side is also being rushed so that by the time steel reaches the coast ships will be able to load on grain from the prairie provinces.

TERMINAL ELEVATORS.

The Government is also implementing its pledge in regard to providing Government owned terminal storage facilities. As a starter a three-and-a-quarter million bushels elevator is being erected at Port Arthur and will be ready to handle its share of this year's crop. Interior terminal elevators are also, it was recently announced, are being built in order to provide at interior points storage facilities with all the consequent advantages to the farmers. It was no idle promise for the supplementary estimates which have just been brought down contain an item of no less than four million dollars for an interior terminal elevator system.

Senate Killing Highways Bill

One of Most Popular Measures in List of Government Legislation Again Under the Axe in Upper House

It is difficult to see what justification the Senate has in killing the Highways Act, which, next to the Naval Bill, is the most popular measure the Government has introduced this session. The Highways Act, providing for the establishment of a system of better roads throughout Canada, has been heavily endorsed by farmers' organizations and rural associations from Halifax to Vancouver. Under a system of co-operation between the provinces and the Dominion, it is proposed to devote as an initial expenditure a million and a half this first year. The bill was thrown out by the Senate last year on the ground that the measure did not contain clauses providing that the expenditure was to be divided amongst the different provinces in proportion to the population.

Calgary Choir Concert

The choir of Central Methodist Church, Calgary, fifty strong, stopped off at Red Deer on Wednesday evening on their way to the musical festival and competition at Edmonton. Under Mr. W. V. Oaten's leadership, they gave a programme of high class music before a large audience in the Methodist church, sacred selections being dominant. Mr. Oaten gave several organ numbers, and the highest appreciation was shown by the audience to his solo work and his leadership. The choir was well trained tones and easy manner making her at once a favorite with the audience. Miss Dowler, the soprano soloist, gave earnest and intelligent interpretation to her work in parts. The male soloists, Messrs. Horner and Gainer, sang most capably and with fine voice. The whole concert was of a high order of merit, and the Red Deer people counted themselves very fortunate in hearing it, and were grateful to Mr. Welton for his efforts in connection with his visit here. The ladies were given a run round the city in autos, and refreshments were served to them by the Methodist choir and the concert. They left in their special cars at 4:15 a.m. for Edmonton.

DEATH OF LUTHER McCARTY IN THE PRIZE RING AT CALGARY ON MAY 24th.

Luther McCarty came to a sudden end of his career on May 24th while engaged in a boxing contest with Arthur Polkey at the Manchester Arms, Calgary. The deceased was well known in Calgary, having fought his first match there two years ago; and he had recently defeated Jim Flynn and Al. Palmer, which practically stamped him as the white heavyweight champion of the world. There must have been 7,000 people present when McCarty and Polkey shook hands and commenced the fight, which had only been in progress one minute and forty-six seconds when McCarty was seen to reel and fall, never to rise again. The referee proceeded to count him out, according to the rules, and declared Polkey the winner, and the crowd present hailed him as such, thinking McCarty was simply knocked out, but it was almost immediately found out that he was dead. Polkey was arrested and afterwards released on bail. Arthur Polkey was brought up before the magistrates on Monday and charged with manslaughter, but was again released on bail of $10,000 put up by F. C. Lowes and Tommy Burns. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict of accidental death, the immediate cause being the sublimation of the fourth cervical vertebra, with no evidence to show the injury was occasioned. A most unusual event took place a few minutes previous to the fight, when the Rev. W. E. Ward, who had been invited to the church on the following day, turning to the two boxes, told them not to forget in their prayers that they had a Creator, and to prepare to meet Him, as He was a greater referee than the one chosen by them to judge the match. With those parting words he stepped from the ring and the match began.

According to instructions received from the late Luther McCarty's father, his body has been shipped to Pickaway, Ohio.

STOVE HEATS MANY IRONS

Shelves Along Sides of Fire Box Accommodate Extra Lot

A Kentucky man has designed a stove for laundry purposes that will heat 14 flatirons at once. At the same time he has attached a boiler to it so that water can be heated at the same time the irons are without any waste of heat. The fire box of this stove has a very cast iron side lining which take up the heat. Along both sides are shelves, each of which hold four eight-pound irons, points up, with their buttons against the stove and in direct contact with the heated portion. The shelves account for eight of the 14 irons which constitute the heating capacity of the stove, the other six being heated on top in the ordinary way. In front the stove has a drop door, fitted so that no air can get in when it is closed. Altogether this stove appears to be just what is needed in laundries.

COULD NOT BE KICKED
Magistrate Apologizes to Prisoner for His Limited Power

A remarkable story of an old convict's adventures was told at Manchester where George Roland Williams was committed for a month to imprisonment. Williams called at two houses in Ancona, representing that he was an officer looking for a man who, he stated, had been "drawing a dead man's pension for two years." He was arrested, and an officer told the stipendiary that Williams, after being put in the cells, had to be taken to Ancona Hospital, but, he said, he was only shamming. Williams represented that he was suffering from neurasthenia and died at the mouth, but a doctor at the hospital found the blood had been caused by Williams striking his nostril with a piece of wire. Williams pleaded that he had no evil design. It was a piece of foolishness for which he ought to be kicked.

The stipendiary: "I am afraid we are not allowed to sentence you to be kicked."

It was stated that on one occasion Williams, by representing himself to be a doctor, had induced a young lady to marry him.

BANNER RAILROAD YEAR

Millions Being Spent for Rolling Stock—Prosperity for Steel Mills

The enormous railway development of Canada, particularly in the West, is reflected in an article written by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, for the Monetary Times.

Notwithstanding the large amount of railway construction in Canada, there is every indication that quite much will be required during the coming year. This means a great deal for the country because, besides giving employment to many thousands of men in the making of the railways, it naturally stimulates manufacturing in the rail mills, iron and steel works, lumber mills and a large number of other establishments, and keeps the wheel of national prosperity spinning.

Speaking for our own company, the rail requirements for the next year will approximate 250,000 tons, and those, with the requisite fastenings, will represent an expenditure of over $8,000,000.

During the past year in addition to the construction of new lines, we have taken all the cars and locomotives that we could have built in Canada, and have also made large contracts with manufacturers in the United States. At the present time our outstanding orders for rolling stock are for 1913, aggregate $30,000,000, and a very large proportion of this amount will be spent in Canada.

"Then there are the other works, to which reference was made in the annual report. The extension of our double track system East and West, the important terminal works at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, and the large locomotive and car works at Ogden, near Calgary, that involve the employment of very many men, and the use of a great deal of material.

We fully recognize the transportation necessities and claims of the country and it is our anxious desire to meet them in so far as the obligation rests with our company but our operations are frequently delayed by conditions that we cannot overcome, such as an unfavorable season and a shortage of men and materials.

"My own feeling is, that, surveying the situation conservatively, the year 1913 will be replete with development, progress and prosperity for Canada."

MAPLE SUGAR INDUSTRY

Care in the Process of Manufacture Necessary for Good Results.

From the time the earliest explorers discovered Indians making sugar from the maple tree and the present day the production of maple sugar has been an important industry in Canada and the United States. These two countries are the only ones in which the industry flourishes. In a Farmers' Bulletin issued by the United States Government it is stated that maple sugar and maple syrup are not now produced in such quantities as formerly. "But," the Bulletin goes on to say, "within the last six or seven years there has been a renewed tendency towards the production of a better grade of maple products."

"Maple syrup or maple sugar prepared by the best methods is a light-colored, pleasant-tasting product. Contrary characteristics are the result of uncleanly methods and possibly sour in 99 cases out of a hundred, and were manufacturers to take greater care in their methods their results would show improvements. This better grade may not appeal to many people who have been accustomed to the darker grades."

In relation to the present growth of the sugar maple the bulletin states:—"Within its wide range the sugar maple appears as a predominant tree only in the New England States, New York, Southern Canada, Northern and Western Pennsylvania, and in parts of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. In the southern Appalachians it occurs in scattered bodies where climate conditions are similar to those of the North. In the extreme northern part of New York State and the adjacent district of Quebec the forest growth is often almost pure maple, and even considerably further south, where beech and birch become associate trees, the sugar maple holds its own as the dominant species. In Northern Pennsylvania, at an altitude of over 1,000 feet, the mixture is much the same as it is in New York. In Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois a similar condition is found, but as the hill country disappears the maple retreats to the richer and damper soils, leaving great areas to the oaks and chestnuts."

What's the Use?
A man who saw how the farmers were cheated. Showed them the game and how they could beat it. Some of them laughed and others looked grim.

At last he got sick of his foolish campaign. Since no one would act there was nothing to gain. Then the farmers all wakened and started to scoff.

"Just what we expected! They've bought him off!"

And the man who had tried to fight their fight. To stop the cheating and get things right. Laughed and said as he turned to his plow: "You can't help a farmer anyhow!"

BALD HEADS AND HATS

Men's Tight Fitting Headgear Cause Shining Pate to Appear

Fashion governs women with or without their consent, but it governs men only when they consent to be governed. A notable exception to this rule is the hat, and a distinguished medical authority declares that baldness is due to the hats men wear. Until the stiff hat is banished men may be expected to suffer from baldness. Those who wish to escape this fate should never wear any hats that firmly clamp the hair, but should wear a hat that is light and easy fitting. If the styles do not permit of an easy fit, men must take their choice between the styles and their hair.

The hat causes baldness by shutting off the circulation of blood that nourishes the roots of the hair. Contrary to general belief, the circulation that reaches the hair does not come from the inside of the head. The veins lie very near the surface, and when a hat is placed tightly on the head it pinches these minute veins so that they can convey only a small part of the blood with which they are charged to the scalp. When the hat is removed the circulation is improved immediately, but when it is worn for several hours each day for years its effect begins to be permanent.

Tough tight hats are the chief cause of baldness, they are not the sole cause. There is a family of germs that attacks the hair and causes it to fall out, and for the elimination of these germs the best remedy and safeguard is rigid cleanliness.

A BREAKFAST TRAGEDY

By F. R. Parsons

The harsh, discordant shrieks of the neighboring "brakats" hoarsely vibratory and piercing, cut through the morning calm as I came up with him, huddled in a dejected heap on a seat, fronting the river. His sunken chin dropped on his breast; his arms hung limply; one leg was drawn up under the seat, the other stretched across the pathway.

At the sound of my voice he lifted his face—a face, too, I'll never be losing his memory.

"Is it all you are, man?" I asked, concernedly.

"Oh! Something like a laugh escaped him. It was a harsh, mirthless, eerie effort, and it seemed to crack his stiff-drawn face as it burst through. "You tell me, or something about it?" I said, "regardless of the fact that numberless grimy denizens of yonder factories were streaming westward to snatch a hurried breakfast. I sat me down beside him.

"Smoke!" I said, as I handed him my pouch, thinking its soothing influence might calm his jangled nerves. He snatched at it like a starved dog at a dainty; extracted and munched a lump with hungry avidity.

"You know, what it is to have 'somethin' y'love an' worship just a'ldin' away from ye; 'cause ye ain't got nothin' in 't'ouse to keep life in it."

He had turned upon me fiercely, savagely.

"Y'know, maybe! Then, I do! I've a kid at 'ome what's dyin' just like that; 'cos I can't get word to find the kid a meal—to keep life an' soul in his little body."

"I'm a fitter. 'Tried all them shops 's'mornin'—nodding his head in the direction of the tall chimneys that indicate the industrial zone. "I'm a fitter. 'Tried all them shops 's'mornin'—nodding his head in the direction of the tall chimneys that indicate the industrial zone. "I'm a fitter. 'Tried all them shops 's'mornin'—nodding his head in the direction of the tall chimneys that indicate the industrial zone.

"But this ain't the worst, mate. Maybe if I tell ye, ye'll like like like in me; an' 'tue worst of it is I know I'd deserve all of it—aye, deserve it."

He hung his head again in the old dejected attitude.

"I stole the kid's breakfast 's'mornin', before I come out; I did!"

"The words were jerked from him as he shot up from his seat, and strode drunkenly a pace or two until he reached the railings, on which he leaned, burying his head in his arms. Presently he lifted his head and went on:

"God knows I was hungry enough, an' wanted it; but the Devil took it off the table an' tempted me mouth with it. 'Twas a bite o' bread an' a drop o' milk I bought with 't' last money over night. Mother an' me saved it fer 't' kid's breakfast 's'mornin'; but when I gits up an' sees it there, temptin' like, I couldn't keep me hands off it, nowher."

"An' I tried, God in heaven knows I did; I've put the old cap over it so's I shouldn't see it while I had a wash—'twas no use! An' I'd had nothin' to eat all yesterday."

His voice trailed off into a hoarse whisper.

"How me where you live!" I said.

He looked up into my face; his own growing white under a spasm of faintness.

Then, without a word, he tottered along beside me; over the bridge, past sprawling warehouses, smokestacks, foundries and untidy wharves; thence into the western quarter of the city.

At a little shop I bade him wait whilst I made a few purchases. Then down a noisome alley-way, and so to a door which he pushed open.

A woman, careworn, pale, and emaciated, rose from a stool as he entered, and seeing me behind, she looked at him with hurried, shaking fingers drew together the odds of a thin blouse whereby to cover her naked bust. Her eyes looked—mutely inquiring, traveling from her husband to me, and then to an empty table, devoid of any eatable or drinkable; then to a little, single bedstead in one corner of the room.

My eyes followed hers, and I noticed, partly concealed by a few dingy bed coverings, the fair-haired head of a sleeping boy. By the bedside was a pair of crutches. The face was partly turned to me, and a somnolent, peaceful look, the placid stillness, the marble whiteness of the skin caused me to drop the parcels I held in my arms.

I bent over him for, perhaps, ten seconds. Then I laid my fingers on his forehead.

"He ain't hungry, now!" I said, quietly.

LIGHTNING YARNS

Supernatural Regarding Thunder Storms—Follies as to Scissors

A fallacy of many men is that small steel objects, such as scissors or knives, will "attract lightning." Now, the destructive flashes which need be feared range anywhere from 200 feet to a mile in length and are commonly of 50,000 horse-power. While their cross sections are like those of iron bars heated to whiteness, it is therefore, silly to suppose that such an insignificant thing as a pair of scissors would attract such a force out of its path, and it is equally silly to believe that a plate of glass or a few inches of feather bedding would bar its progress once it was started toward you.

A further superstition—in which nearly every housewife believes implicitly—is that "lightning rods milk." True, milk will often quickly decompose when a thunderstorm is brewing; but it is the closeness of the atmosphere which does the mischief, never the lightning, and the milk would turn on an equally sultry day when there was not a thunderstorm within a hundred miles.

Then, too, there is the wise saw which says that "lightning never strikes twice in the same place." Yet objects which have been struck once frequently offer themselves again and again as targets—Clerk's Own Paper and Woman's Magazine.

G. Nestrap has started a lumber yard, and will have a full supply of all kinds of lumber, including doors, windows and finishing material.

Mr. French, of Pitoc, delivered a well 65 feet deep for C. Gustafson in

THE FIRST BORN

The Briggs were a young married couple, and the first year of their married life had drawn to a close with the arrival of the baby—the only baby in the world—and it is with this precious baby and an old married couple that this story is concerned. It so happened that a fresh supply of coal was ordered by the Briggs just five weeks before the baby came into this troublesome world, which accounts for the doors and windows being shut, for in this part of the world the baby is kept in the upper room till it is a month old, after which the mother generally finds its way to the kitchen frieze.

When old Griggs, the coalman, knocked at the door of Halley Villa he was greeted with a shriek that nearly lifted his head off. He stepped back astonished. Then he heard a noisier, warbling whine—"You must wait, Mr. Coalman, until I have dear baby washed and in his cradle again. If I opened the door the cold might kill him!"

"Orright, mum! Never mind me! I ain't in no hurry. You just make sure of the young 'un—us old 'uns can take care of ourselves," replied old Griggs through the keyhole, after which he sat down on an upturned bucket, lit up his short clay pipe, and puffed and puffed and ruminated on the peculiarities of young babies and young mothers generally.

Twenty minutes later the door was opened, and the coal was allowed to enter the coal store, after which the young mother invited the coalman to partake of a glass of beer and some biscuits.

"You see, my good man," said Mrs. Briggs, "our baby is very valuable, and it would never do to let the cold get to him—it might kill him!"

"Delicate cratures, mum," mumbled old Griggs in reply as he munched his biscuits. "I 'spects they want a lot o' lookin' arter now, mum?"

"Oh! But my baby isn't delicate at all!" protested the young mother, proudly.

The old man gulped—"I didn't mean weaklike," he hastened to say. "I meant valuable—like gold, ye know?"

"Oh, yes, he is," said Mrs. Briggs, somewhat mollified. "Would you like to see him?"

"That's wot I'm lookin' for!" said old Griggs, "but I ain't so bold, I've declared Griggs, solemnly. "Babies, I see to my own baby this mornin', 'ain't that right, mum?"

"I don't often see 'un, but I 'spects I shall see the best in the world to-day!"

"Did you now?" (beaming). "So you haven't got any babies?"

"Nary one, mum," muttered the old man.

"Poor man! Well, just wash your hands at the sink out there, and then you can see the baby, and maybe that perhaps you would like another glass o' beer."

"Thank ye, kindly, mum. I'd better hev the beer now. I'm thinkin' 'cause I don't like gold' back on crustin' arter eatin' that 'un."

"I don't know, mum," said Mrs. Briggs, "but I reckon, secin' the baby would be the cake, d'ye see, an' the beer would be the crust."

The young mother was so pleased with her visitor that she would have done anything he asked her to do. After he had put away his second glass, washed his hands, and dried his face, she led him carefully into the back the cradle coverlet. Trembling violently, Griggs slowly drew back the coverlet and disclosed to view the sleeping baby.

"Well," he exclaimed in a hoarse whisper, "that's a baby an' no mistake! Might I be so bold as to touch 't' cheek with me finger, mum?"

"The young mother looked at the knobby fingers with some alarm.

"Only just touch him," she said reluctantly.

"Velvet, mum!" he muttered, and his hairy, withered face went lower and lower, and he was about to snatch a kiss before he could be restrained. Then he assumed a dignified position, whilst great tears commenced to roll down his furrowed cheeks.

The baby did not wake, and this fact combined with the tears saved old Griggs from making any noise.

"Poor man!" exclaimed the young mother; "you must have fallen in love with the baby."

Old Griggs fumbled blindly for his cap, and, having got it, tottered to the door, muttering as he went—

"Best—best baby in the world, mum!"

"Poor man!" she repeated, as she watched him drive away. "How funny it is that some people have babies and some do not!"

And late that night as old Griggs and his old woman sat by the fire, the old man related to his wife his morning's adventure; and as he went on Mary gradually drew her chair nearer to that in which her old man sat.

"And, Mary," he said, brokenly, "I kissed it—I couldn't help it. And when I kissed it I membered the old kitchen in the ole 'ome an'—the cradle—an' ye, Mary, ole gal! I just couldn't help it—I blubbered!"

"It's fifty years ago, ain't it, Mary, since we brought 'in downstairs for the first time?"

And, sobbing softly, the mother of eleven children said it was just forty-eight years and three months and ten days since the historic event recalled. Then they were silent for some minutes, save Mary's sobbing.

"Git 't' picture," Mary; I'd like to see it."

The picture was produced, and the old couple sat close together and gazed at it—the photo of a sailor in the Royal Navy, the original of which was drowned through a boat capsizing.

"Mothers is mothers," muttered old Griggs, as he slipped his left arm round Mary's neck, "an' if I membered rightly, I think I heard the mother of this 'un sayin' 'undreds o' times 'there was never such a baby afore'."

After this the old couple was only broken by an occasional deep-drawn sigh as the two sat and sat, and gazed at the photo of their first-born.

U. S. FACTORIES ARE COMING IN

And the Canadian Customs Tariff is the Lever Which Forces Them to Our Side of the Line

In a long letter dated at Medicine Hat, Alberta, on February 17th, Mr. Norman Lambert, a staff correspondent of the Toronto Globe, dwells upon the fact that American salesmen sell vast quantities of United States factory products in the Canadian prairie provinces, but he adds:

"When the manufacturer of the United States sees that he can get such a large proportion of the rapidly increasing trade of western Canada, obstructed as he is by tariff restrictions, it is an easy guess that he will come over here and compete harder than ever for business by actually manufacturing his products on this side of the line wherever it is possible to do so. Western Canada is rapidly finding itself. The interest which is being shown by the manufacturer of the United States in western Canada is distinctly related to the interest which has been shown by his former brother."

Industrial Opportunities To quote the correspondent further: "That American capital is most assuredly taking advantage of the industrial opportunities in western Canada was borne upon one's mind very much more forcibly after looking about Medicine Hat and the little town of Redcliffe, which is situated only six miles west of it. During the past year nine separate industries entered Redcliffe, representing an invested capital of $1,750,000, and of that amount only $600,000 is Canadian money; the bulk of it came from the United States. In fact, the man who induced industries to go to Redcliffe is an American. He founded the place three years ago, because natural gas was to be found there, and he knew that it would not be difficult to establish an industrial community at Redcliffe. Medicine Hat also during the past year has seen eighteen new industries located within its boundaries, representing an investment of from $4,800 to $10,000,000 each, the total amount of invested capital being $4,800,000. A very large proportion of Medicine Hat's new capital is also of American origin. At Calgary, one finds a company from Minnesota investing two million dollars for the purpose of manufacturing tractor engines, and another concern from across the border spending a hundred thousand dollars in a brick and clay products plant."

Where is Jack Canuck? The Globe man continues: "This industrial development is illustrated rather graphically on the cover page of a special factory edition which The News of this city will publish this month. The artist pictures Miss Medicine Hat standing before long, lanky, benevolent-looking Uncle Sam, whose hat she holds in her outstretched hands, and into which that wise old gentleman is pouring factory buildings and rolling John Bull shown in the distance, hurrying forward over the prairie with a bulging grip in each hand. 'But nowhere, even on the far-distant horizon is there to be seen a sign of young Jack Canuck!'"

In this frank testimony three points are worthy of especial emphasis:

(1). The Toronto Globe's accredited agent admits that the national Policy of moderate protection is encouraging American industries to establish important branch factories at a number of strategic points on the Canadian prairie. In this way important centres of population are created as profitable markets for the neighboring farmers.

(2). British capital is following the American lead.

(3). Eastern Canadian manufacturers are slow to take advantage of the great opening made for them in the already great and rapidly developing western market.

Warren Overpack has purchased the Purnell Brick Company's plant, Medicine Hat, Alta., and will greatly increase its capacity by extending and installing new machinery. When completed it will have a capacity of 100,000 bricks per day.

The shareholders of the Alberta Rolling Mills Company have increased the capital stock from $150,000 to $500,000. The increase will be used to make further additions to the present plant.

It is stated that Mr. Felix Frank, of the Royal Navy, the original of which was drowned through a boat capsizing.

Great progress is being made with the new breakwater, and when it is completed will be a credit to the city and the citizens who, under the able management of Mr. Bergstrom, have given their services.

It is the intention to have the regatta the middle of July, so lift up your voice, Red Deer, and let the world know how interested you are in our progress.

Improvements are the order of the day, and sidewalk material is arriving from the west by degrees.

Already summer visitors are in residence, and the lower camp has three houses occupied.

There are six new houses going to be built, and the labor market is already drained.

Every day brings inquiries from outside as to the possibilities of the district, and the village hopes to have an organized Board to deal with the matter.

The roads are good, and the road ranges hard at work.

A great deal of the seeding is well along, and the farmers wear happy smiles of work well done.

Evergreen

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Albert E. Hollender went to Edmonton on Monday.

What might have been a very bad accident happened the other day when Wm. Hallikka came to the post office for his mail. He tried to get off his horse, as he was about to start on his horse, but he slipped and started off, with one of his feet in the stirrup. Joe Kille saw the accident, however, and caught the horse just in time.

Joe Hallikka and Frank Kleinschick have gone to the Rocky Mountain House for work.

May 24th was the scene of a very interesting baseball game. Some people, not knowing that it was a holiday, came to the store and post office as usual. Somebody said, "Let's play ball." "Alright," was the ready answer from a good many.

So young women and married women, kids and men started the game. After the game was over jumping and running were next. The day was spent, therefore, fairly well by all those present.

Mr. Emil was to Red Deer on a business trip recently.

Mrs. Kile was to town on Monday.

The C.N.R. is running a twice-a-week service, which makes things quite handy. It is something new to hear a train whistle at Evergreen.

Frank Husak has got a pleasure boat on the lake across from his business, which is situated on Sec. 2, Twp. 38, Rge. 5, West 5th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lytkowski, of Camrose, Alta., have taken up a homestead in this district. We are glad to see so many good settlers coming into this part of the country.

Y. Vuomans, while painting at Mr. Bell's place, wrenched his foot and had to lay off for a week.

STRAY HORSES.

On the premises of H. Raikes, of Pine Lake, N.E. 12-36-26, one grey gelding, about ten years old; has on left shoulder blotch brand like a half diamond with bar underneath, supported by two perpendicular bars. The horse is gentle to handle. Also one roan mare, coming three years old, no visible brand, white on face, white patch on ribs underneath. Three white feet, hind feet white to hocks and white on both knees. Gentle to handle.—Spencer Wyndham, Brand Header, Penhold, R. R. No. 1. May 30, 3w.

ONE or two generations ago most farm animals roamed at large, but we have gradually found that this did not pay.

The barn yard fowls have been the last to feel the effects of business methods on the farm, but at last they have to get in their place (in the poultry yard) and stay there.

The farmer who reads the magazines knows that to-day many a chicken farm of a few acres pays bigger profits than large farms did a few years ago. Every farmer keeps chickens because it pays, and it will pay lots better, and the farm will look better, if they are kept in the poultry yard.

ENOUGH of our poultry fencing to keep your fowls properly will cost very little, and will be the best investment you ever made on the farm.

Those who know buy DE LAVAL Cream Separators

Creamerymen—Because they are experts in the handling of cream and know by long experience that the De Laval skims cleanest and wears longest. That is why 98% of the World's creameries use the De Laval exclusively.

Experienced Dairymen—The De Laval is the universal favorite among big dairymen. They know that no other separator will give them such satisfactory service.

Old De Laval Users—Whenever a man who has used an old model De Laval decides to purchase a later style machine he invariably buys another De Laval.

Men Who Investigate—If anyone takes the time to investigate the merits of the various cream separators, either by finding out from other users what kind of service their machines have given or by testing other machines out against the De Laval, the chances are a hundred to one that his choice will be the De Laval. More De Laval machines are in use than any other make.

There is a reason. Come in and we will tell you why.

More than 1,500,000 DELAVALS now in use.
